A BEAUTIFUL MARRIAGE.

A wedding of unusual beauty and interest took place last Thursday evening at Grace Memorial Episcopal church, when Miss Lucy Nelson Pendleton was married to Mr. William T. Leavell, Jr. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert N. Pendleton, of Wythevile, Va., and for some years past has made her home in Lexington with her cousin, Mrs. Susan P. Lee, daughter of the late Gen. William N. Pendleton. She is a beautiful and accomplished young lady and is very popular in Lexington society. The groom 1- a son of Rev. W. T. Leavell, of Hedgesville, W. Va., and is a coal operator, being a mining engineer at Crescent, W. Va. He is an aluanus of Washington and Lee University.

The church was filled with the many friends of the bride. The altar and charcel were brilliantly illuminated with wax cand es, and were decorated with Easter blies, potted p'ants, and ferns, all of which presented a lovely scene. Shortly after 8 o'clock the bridal party entered the church to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march which was rendered on the organ by Mr. Hugh M. McIlhany, of Washington and Lee University. The usbers were Mr. G. I. Thoruton, of Port Royal, Va.; Mr. J. W. Garrow, of Houston, Tex.; Mr. James H. Shively, of Marien, Ind.; and Mr. Robert Nelson, of Lexington, Ky. Then followed Miss Annie McDouald, of Charles Town, W. Va. attired in pink organdie and carried white roses, Miss Anne Daniel of Charles To n, W.Va., in pink organdie and carried white rose, bridesmaids, and nie es of Mr. Leavell, followed by the groomsmen, Mr. Harry W. Prattand Mr. A. Nelson Myers, both of Lexington. Then Miss Kate Pendleton, o: Wytheville, Va., a sist r of the bride, in white organdie and pink rose: Miss He'en Moore, of Wytheville, in white organde and carried pink reses, b. idesmaids, followed by the groomsmen, Mr. Roy G. Mitchell, of Brownsburg, va., and Mr. John Glenn, of of Bultimore. Next the flower girls, Misses Ei inor and Auzolette Gadsden, of Wa hington, D. C., attired in pink, and Misses Ma garet Turk, of Washington, D. C., and Ellen Anderson, of Lexington, in white. Then the bride, who was attired in a becoming goan of whit creandie and veil, carrying a marriage book, entered leaning on the arm of her brother, Mr. William G.

church. Upon the conclusion of the ceremony the bridal party left the church to the strains of Mendelssohn's march and repaired to "The Pines," Mrs. Susan P. Lee's residence, on Jackson avenue, where a reception to the relatives of the bride and groom was given. After which Mr. and Mrs. Leavell drove to Buena Vista and took the 1 o'clock train over the Norfolk and Western railroad for a vi-it to the Northern cities.

WM. H. NETZ DEAD.

Mr. William Henry Netz died at his home at East Lexington early Monday morning, April 18, 1898, aged six'yfour years. For many years he had been a great sufferer from a peculiar and distressing disease, stricture of the esophagus, which lately developed into inflammation of the liver and hastened his death. For the past three weeks he was confined to his home, and although towards the last he suffered greatly, he bore up with remarkable patience and submission until the end

Mr. Netz was born in Washington county, Md., and came to Lexington in 1853. Two years later he married Miss Mary J. Day, daughter of Mr. William Day, deceased, of this place He was at first associated in the milling business at the Point mill with Mr. Henry S. Locher. Afterwards for many years he was toll gatherer at East Lexington for the James River and Kanawha Canal Co. During the war he was detailed as miller, and so was not called to active service in the field. After the close of hostilities he devoted himself to various business enterprises and succeeded in gathering around him a competence of this world's

The deceased was a man of generous impulses, kindly disposition, and great sociability. During his long residence in Lexington he formed many ties of friendship. For more than thirty years he was a member of Rockbridge Lodge of Odd Fellows of this place. While confined tohis home during his last illness he made a profession of religion and united with the Methodist church.

Mr Netz is survived by his wife and two sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Nikirk, of Boonesboro, Md., and Mis. Caroline Morrison, of Ronesville, Md. The funeral services were held in Trinity Methodist church this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, by Rev. J. T. Wightman, D. D.
